The Royal Institute of British Architects (RIBA) has opened applications for the 2021 Norman Foster Travelling Scholarship. The scholarship seeks to reward one architecture student and fund their travel to explore the sustainable survival of cities and towns. This year, in response to global travel restrictions, students can alternatively submit a proposal to research a topic in their home country. Applications are welcomed from students around the world and a 7,000 GBP grant will be awarded to the winner, decided by a panel of judges that includes Lord Foster and RIBA President Alan Jones.

Applications are open to students who are enrolled in, or have successfully completed, the first year of a professional qualification in architecture at one of the higher education institutions invited to participate.

On the RIBA Scholarship, Lord Foster said: "As a student I won a prize that allowed me to spend a summer travelling through Europe and to study first hand buildings and cities that I knew only from the pages of books. It was a revelation—liberating and exhilarating in so many ways. Today it is the privilege of the Norman Foster Foundation to support the RIBA Norman Foster Travelling Scholarship, which I hope will have a lasting legacy—offering the chance for discovery and the inspiration for exciting new work—for generations to come".

RIBA President Alan Jones added: "The annual Norman Foster Travelling Scholarship gives aspiring architects the chance to carry out important research, addressing global challenges and the sustainable future of our towns and cities. Students need our support now more than ever, and we are very grateful to the Norman Foster Foundation for their ongoing generosity to make this grant possible".

First established in 2006, the scholarship, supported by the Norman Foster Foundation, is now in its fifteenth year and is intended to fund national or international research on a topic related to the sustainable survival of our towns and cities, in a location of the student's choice. Past RIBA Norman Foster Scholars have travelled through the Americas, Europe, Africa, South East Asia, the Middle and Far East and Russia. Proposals for research might include: learning from the past to inform the future; the future of society; the density of settlements; sustainability; the use of resources; the quality of urban life; and transport.

The deadline for submissions is 5pm (GMT) Friday, May 28, 2021. For more information, please visit architecture.com.

Since 2007, the Norman Foster Foundation, London has provided the following traveling fellowships:

2020: Iulia Cistelean—London School of Architecture—"Life Between Shelters: Refugee Camps of Today becoming Cities of Tomorrow"

2019: Siti Nurafaf Ismail—University of Malaya, Malaysia—"Architecture of Humility"

2018: Steven Hutt—University of Greenwich, UK—"East of Eden"

2017: Chloe Loader—University of Lincoln, UK—"Emerging Cities: Sustainable Masterplanning in the Global South"

2016: Abel Feleke—University of Western Australia—"Weaving the Urban Fabric: Examining the Significance of Community"

2015: Charles Palmer—University of Sheffield, UK—"Cycling Megacities"

2014: Joe Paxton—Bartlett (UCL), UK—"Buffer Landscapes 2060"

RIBA Norman Foster Scholarship

"As a student, I won a prize that allowed me to spend a summer travelling through Europe and to study first-hand buildings and cities that I knew only from the pages of books. It was a revelation – liberating and exhilarating in so many ways.

Today, it is the privilege of the Norman Foster Foundation to support the RIBA Norman Foster Travelling Scholarship, which I hope will have a lasting legacy – offering the chance for discovery and the inspiration for exciting new work – for generations to come." Lord Foster

The RIBA Norman Foster Travelling Scholarship offers £7,000 to a student of architecture who demonstrates the potential for outstanding achievement and original thinking on issues that relate to the sustainable survival of cities and towns.

In 2021, in response to the global restrictions on travel put in place to contain the spread of the COVID-19 virus, applications will be accepted for national research proposals as well as international research proposals. Therefore, students may submit a proposal for research on a topic in their home country or at (an) international location(s).

Both national and international research proposals should relate to the sustainable survival of our cities and towns and fall under one of the following themes:

- Learning from the past to inform the future
- The future of society
- Density of settlements
- Use of resources
- Quality of urban life
- Transport

Eligibility criteria

To be eligible to apply, students must be enrolled in, and have successfully completed at least the first year of a professional qualification in architecture from a school invited by the RIBA.

Each invited school can submit one application only for the scholarship from one of its current students, and each school chooses its own method of selecting its student.

See the list of schools invited by the RIBA.

How to apply

Once selected by your school, students will need to submit the following:

- one completed application form signed by the student and by the Head of School
- one A1 'poster' presented as a pdf file detailing the proposal (topic, objective, locations). Applicants are restricted to 500 words on the poster submission, and images should be high-resolution.

Full details of the application process can be found in the guidance notes at the beginning of the application form.

Completed applications (including the application form and A1 'poster') must be submitted via a web-based file transfer service (such as WeTransfer) to Gillian.Harrison@riba.org by the deadline of 5pm (GMT) on Friday 28 May 2021.

Applications received after this time will not be accepted.

The beginning of the period of travel for the successful applicant will be subject to the respective government's confirmation that the travel specified may be safely undertaken. Prior to travel, the successful applicant will be required to complete a health risk assessment which meets the approval of the RIBA and the Norman Foster Foundation.
